PREFACE

The new Land Law (Law 19/97) was passed by Parliament in July 1997. By the end of 1999, the legal instruments required to implement it were passed, namely, the Land Law Regulations for rural areas and the Technical Annexe thereto, containing rules on the delimitation of community lands and the rules governing fees payable by land users.

This collection of legislation covers the key aspects of land occupation and use. Various situations are regulated, including, among others, the acquisition of the right of land use and benefit by customary occupancy in good faith and by official channels, the rules governing protection zones, the relationship between the public and the Cadastre Services, and the rights and duties of titleholders.

The legislative package is a step forward in the process of democratisation and peace consolidation, with a view to achieving sustainable development in Mozambique. The recognition of rights acquired through systems of customary occupancy and the role of communities in the management of land and natural resources and conflict resolution are seen, internationally, as very innovative features of our legislation that can facilitate equitable development based on relations that are mutually beneficial to local communities and to new investors, whether these are national or foreign.

We have a clear and secure legal framework, which can adapt to the diverse economic contexts of hundreds of private projects that are currently underway in the country. These projects bring new opportunities to the entire population – employment, new markets, improved infrastructure, partnerships and other forms of involvement in the development process.

Considering the importance of this legislation to all Mozambicans and to foreigners interested in investing in Mozambique, the Government thought that it was essential to make this instrument more accessible to foreign investors. With the support of the law firm José Caldeira & Associados, the Niassa Business Centre – Nakosso, the National Directorate of Geography and Cadastre (DINAGECA), the Investment Promotion Centre (CPI) and the Confederation of Business Associations of Mozambique (CTA), the legislative package was translated into English.

ASSEMBLY OF THE REPUBLIC

Law No. 19/97 of 1 October

As a common mean for the creation of wealth and social well-being, the use and benefit of the land is the right of all Mozambican people.

The challenge that the country faces for its development, as well as the experience in the application of the Land Law No 6/79, of 3 July, demonstrate the need for its revision in order to bring it into conformity with the new political, economic and social circumstances and to ensure access and security of land tenure not only for Mozambican peasants but also for national and foreign investors.

It is therefore intended to encourage the use and benefit of land so that this resource, the most important resource that the country has, is valued and contributes to the development of the national economy.

In these terms, and pursuant to Article 135.1 of the Constitution, the Assembly of the Republic determines:

COUNCIL OF MINISTERS

Decree 66/98
8th of December

The Regulations of the Land Law were approved by Decree 16/87 of 15 July.

The application of the Regulations revealed that several of its provisions needed to be amended in order to simplify the administrative procedures and, thus, facilitate access to land by national and foreign investors.

The revision of the Land Law under Law 19/97 of 1 October introduced several innovations that need to be regulated, in particular, the recognition of rights acquired by occupancy by local communities and Mozambican individuals who, in good faith, occupy land for at least ten years.

In these terms and under the authority provided by article 33 of Law 19/97 of 1 October, the Council of Ministers decrees:

ARTICLE 1

The Regulations of the Land Law, which are attached to this decree and are an integral part hereof, are hereby approved.

ARTICLE 2

Decree 16/87 of 15 July, is hereby repealed.

Approved by the Council of Ministers.
Let it be published.

THE PRIME MINISTER

All penalties shall be recorded in the surveyor's register and those referred to in paragraphs 3 and 4 of article 25 shall be published in the Boletim da República.

Decree 9/97 of 22 April

Amends article 1 of the Regulations on Activities of Sworn Surveyors approved by Decree 15/93 of 25 August.

Decree 9/97 of 22 April

The Regulations governing the activities of sworn surveyors were approved by Decree 15/93 of 25 August. The experience of the implementation of these Regulations shows that this activity should be restricted to professionals who are not simultaneously linked to State institutions responsible for the cadastre, because otherwise their objectivity in inspecting and verifying work performed by sworn surveyors is jeopardised.

In these terms, under the authority vested in it by article 2 of Law 16/92 of 14 October, the Council of Ministers decrees:

Single provision: Article 1 of the Regulations on activities of sworn surveyors is amended and shall now read as follows:

1.
2. Exercising the activity of a sworn surveyor is incompatible with the capacity of a State employee employed in the National Directorate of Geography and Cadastre or Provincial Services thereof, or working under contract on or off the staff, or on any projects realised within the framework of the aforesaid institution.»

Approved by the Council of Ministers.
Let it be published.

THE PRIME MINISTER,

Pascoal Manuel Mocumbi.

Relevant issues about land legislation in Mozambique

We thought it would be useful to explain some of the issues surrounding land legislation, in order to make it easier for our readers to understand some of the important features.

Land ownership in Mozambique

Who owns land in Mozambique?

In the Republic of Mozambique, land is the property of the State. This means that the right of ownership over land is vested in the State (article 46 of the Constitution and article 3 of the Land Law).

Consequently, land may not be sold, alienated, mortgaged or attached (distrained).

Notwithstanding that land is owned by the State, all Mozambicans have the right to use and enjoy the land (right of land use and benefit).

Right of land use and benefit

1. What is a right of land use and benefit

Right of land use and benefit is a right that individual or corporate persons (be they national or foreign) and local communities acquire in respect of land, subject to the demands and limitations of the land legislation.

2. Who can hold a right of land use and benefit?

Individual and corporate persons and local communities can be holders of a right of land use and benefit.

Under the land legislation, there are national holders, as provided for in article 10 of the Land Law, and foreign holders, as provided for in article 11.

National titleholders- National individual and corporate persons, men and women, as well as local communities may be holders of the right of land use and benefit. By making the right of individual persons (men and women) explicit and clear, the legislator wished to stress that the right can be held by women independently of male guardianship. This flows from the principle of equality provided for in articles 66 and 67 of the Constitution of the Republic.

National individual or corporate persons may obtain a right of land use and benefit individually or jointly with other individual or corporate persons, under joint title.

The right of land use and benefit of local communities adheres to the principles of joint title holding, for the purposes of the Law.

Joint title holding: Title is held jointly when the right of land use and benefit belongs to two or more persons.

Foreign titleholders: Foreign individual and corporate persons may be holders of a right of land use and benefit, provided that they have an investment project that is duly approved under the provisions of the investment legislation (Law 3/93 of 24 July and Decree 14/93 of 21 July) and the following conditions are observed:

- a) in the case of individual persons, they shall have been resident in the Republic of Mozambique for at least five years (this requirement can be evidenced by the person's DIRE (residence and identity document) or a document issued by the immigration department);
- b) in the case of corporate persons, they shall be established or registered in the Republic of Mozambique.

It should be noted that article 25(2) of the Land Law Regulations provides that when land is for a personal dwelling, the foreign person need not submit a duly approved investment project.

3. How is the right of land use and benefit acquired?

Under the land legislation, there are three ways in which rights of land use and benefit can be acquired.

I. Occupancy in accordance with customary norms and practices which do not contradict the Constitution. This form of occupancy is only granted to national individual persons and local communities;

II. Occupancy in good faith. This right is also only granted to national individual persons, where they have been using the land in good faith for at least ten years

III. Formal authorisation – This right applies to both categories of persons (national and foreign), where they meet all the legally established requirements.

4. What is a right of land use and benefit by occupancy?

This is where the right of land use and benefit is acquired by national individuals or local communities that have been using the land in good faith for at least ten years.

5. What are the time periods of rights of land use and benefit?

The first authorisation (provisional authorisation) that the Cadastre Services grant to the applicant lasts for two (2) years for foreigners and for five (5) years for nationals.

Once the provisional authorisation period has expired, or before this if the applicant so requests, the land is inspected to check that the proposed project or the exploitation (development) plan has been fulfilled in accordance with the approved schedule. If the exploitation plan or the project has been fulfilled, the Cadastre Services issue a definitive authorisation, which is valid for 50 years and may be renewed for a further 50 years.

It should be noted that the following rights of land use and benefit are not subject to the 50-year time limit:

- Those acquired by occupancy by local communities;
- Those destined for personal dwellings;
- Those destined for family development by national individuals.

6. Where can rights of land use and benefit not be granted?

Rights of land use and benefit are not granted over partial or total protection zones, as these are areas to be used in the public interest.

Only certain activities can be conducted in these zones, and a special licence from the Cadastre Services is required for these.

7. Who authorises special licences?

The following have power to authorise special licences:

- Provincial Governors, in the case of Partial Protection Zones;
- The Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development, in the case of Total Protection Zones.

Special licence: a document authorising any economic activities within total or partial protection zones.

These total and partial protection zones are created, modified and extinguished by the Council of Ministers.

Application for a right of land use and benefit

1. Where is the application made?

The application is made at the Cadastre Services in the province where the desired land plot is located.

2. What documents are required for the application?

To acquire a right of land use and benefit under an authorisation, the following documents are required:

- A duly completed form – the form can be obtained from the Provincial Geography and Cadastre Services;
- In the case of an individual person, the identification document of the applicant or, in the case of a corporate person, the articles of association;
- a sketch of the location of the land desired;
- The exploitation plan and/or the investment project approved by the competent authority;
- Report of consultations with the local community;
- Copy of the public notice;
- Payment deposit slip;
- Receipt as proof of payment of the annual fee.

3. Time limit for responding to the application

The maximum time limit within which the application must be processed is 90 days.

4. What costs are payable for the application?

The costs of processing the application and visiting the site for reconnaissance and consultation purposes are:

TABLE I

Description	Amount payable (in MT)
Location sketch	200.000,00
Emoluments	600.000,00
Reconnaissance and consultation	(See Table II)
Community incentive	300.000,00

Interm. technician	487.500,00 MT
Basic technician	397.500,00 MT
Fuel, where an office vehicle is used	5.000,00 MT/ Km

FORMULA FOR CALCULATING RECONNAISSANCE (R) AND LOCAL COMMUNITY CONSULTATION (C)

$R = \text{Technician} \times \text{days} \times \text{daily rate} + (5.000,00\text{MT} \times K) =$	MT
$C = \text{Technician} \times \text{days} \times \text{daily rate} + (5.000,00\text{MT} \times K) =$	MT

Where R = Reconnaissance

C = Consultation

K = Distance in kilometres from the cadastre services office to the site

5. Is local community consultation required for an application for a right of land use and benefit? How is this done?

Yes, applications for rights of land use and benefit will not be processed unless local community consultation has taken place.

A technician of the Provincial Geography and Cadastre Services (SPGC), the district administrator or his or her representative, the district director of agriculture and rural development (DDADER) and the members of the local community participate in the local community consultation process. The applicant or his or her representative also participates.

6. Is an exploitation plan needed for the application?

An exploitation plan is only required when land is to be used for economic activities. For all other activities, it is not required.

Exploitation plan: document presented by an applicant for the use and benefit of land describing activities, works and building which the applicant undertakes to realise in accordance with a determined schedule.

7. What rights of a titleholder does the State recognise and protect?

For titleholders of a right of land use and benefit, the State recognises and protects rights acquired by occupancy through customary norms and practices, in good faith for more than ten years, and occupancy by inheritance.

8. What is needed to carry out private investment projects that require rights of land use and benefit to be acquired?

For carrying out private investment projects that require rights of land use and benefit, the following are required:

- Prior identification of the land (Cadastre Services, local administrative authorities and local communities);
- Documents required for an application for land use and benefit.

Authorisation of an application

1. Who authorises the application?

Under article 22 of the Land Law, the following entities can authorise an application:

- Provincial governors (for areas of up to 1000 hectares);
- The Minister of Agriculture and Rural Development (for areas of between 1000 and 10,000 hectares);
- The Council of Ministers (for areas that exceed the Minister of Agriculture's authority).

2. Are there different types of authorisation? What are they?

There are two different types of authorisation: provisional authorisation (which lasts for 5 years for nationals and 2 years for foreigners) and definitive authorisation (which is for a 50-year period, renewable for a further 50 years).

Transfer

1. How are rights of land use and benefit transferred?

A right of land use and benefit can be transferred in two ways:

- Inter vivos, by the sale and purchase of infrastructures, structures and improvements on the authorised land plot.
- By inheritance.

2. Is the right of land use and benefit transferred automatically when infrastructures, structures and improvements on rural tenements (prédio rústico) are sold?

No. The purchaser of infrastructures, structures and improvements does not acquire the right of land use and benefit automatically. After the deed of sale has been executed, the purchaser should apply for the right of land use and benefit in respect of the land on which the infrastructures, structures and improvements are in his or her name.

Title

1. What is a right of land use and benefit title?

Title (sometimes called a title deed) is a document issued by the general or urban Public Cadastre Services, proving right of land use and benefit.

The non-existence of a title does not affect a right of land use and benefit acquired by occupancy (by local communities in good faith for more than ten years).

2. How are rights of land use and benefit extinguished?

A right of land use and benefit may be extinguished in the following instances:

- a) By failure by the titleholder to fulfil the exploitation plan without justifiable reasons, even if fiscal obligations (annual fees) are being complied with;
- b) By revocation of the right of land use and benefit for reasons of public interest, preceded by payment of fair indemnification and/or compensation;
- c) Upon the expiry of its term or a renewal thereof;
- d) By renunciation by the titleholder.

Registration of the right of land use and benefit

1. Is registration compulsory?

It is not compulsory to register a right of land use and benefit. This can be done on the initiative of the titleholders. Although registration is not compulsory, it is important for titleholders to register their rights, since this gives the public notice of the act and the said right.

2. Which entity is responsible for registration?

The local (provincial) Real Estate Registry where the authorised land is located is responsible for registration.

Payment of fees

1. What type of fees are right holders subject to?

Holders of the right of land use and benefit are subject to the following fees:

Authorisation fee: Provisional (due at the beginning of the application process) and definitive (due when the definitive authorisation is issued).

Annual fee: payable annually between January and March or in two instalments, the first to be paid by the end of March and the second by the end of June.

2. Where are fees paid?

Fees should be paid to the Cadastre Services.

3. How much are annual fees?

Annual fees are calculated based on the location of the land, its size and the purpose for which it is to be used.

4. Are there any exemptions from annual fees?

The following are exempt from annual fees:

- a) The State and State institutions;
- b) Public interest associations recognised as such by the Council of Ministers;
- c) Family uses, local communities and the individual persons who belong to them;
- d) National small-scale agricultural and livestock cooperatives and associations.

However, a titleholder who, for reasons beyond his or her control and responsibility, is unable to meet the conditions of the exploitation plan may apply to the entity that authorised the application for a temporary exemption from annual fees for a period of up to three years.

Maputo, July 2004

Dear Readers,

MozLegal has great pleasure in presenting to you this publication, a compilation of land legislation.

MozLegal is a project of José Caldeira & Associados – Attorneys and Consultants (JC&A) and was formally established in 2003. Its purpose is to contribute towards the greater dissemination of Mozambican legislation and legal information. To this end, the project has developed three areas:

- A freely accessible website at www.mozlegal.com
- Publication of a newsletter
- The publication of legislation, beginning with this compilation.

MozLegal and the business environment

We have noted that, although some publications exist, there is great demand, both inside and outside Mozambique, for information on the business environment and regulatory legislation.

As Mozambique wishes to attract more local and foreign investment, it is important that people who want to invest, operate, work and live in our country have rapid access to legislation and find answers to their questions about the development of their activities.

For this reason MozLegal is sponsoring the development of the website and of publications in Portuguese and English. It also supports the publicising of legislation on commercial, labour, fiscal, customs, land and industrial property matters.

We have over 20 laws translated into English, including the Investment Law, the Law on Private Limited Companies, the Commercial Code, the IRPC and IRPS Codes. We also try to keep up-to-date with information about the legal reform under way.

Therefore, we await a visit from all of you to www.mozlegal.com and are very interested in receiving your comments and suggestions for improving the site.

Partners and Acknowledgements

We have received significant support for this initiative from our partners: NAKOSSO – the Niassa Business Centre, DINAGECA (the National Directorate of Geography and Cadastre), CPI (the Investment Promotion Centre) and CTA (Confederation of Business Associations of Mozambique). We hope that others will join us.

Our thanks also go to those who participated in this publication: Herman Hammarström (Zerif, Lda), Odete Mugumela (of Dinageca for JC&A), Daniel Doku (Nakosso), Lara Pacheco Faria (Nakosso), Orlando da Conceição (Nakosso), Carol Christie Smit (translations), Joaquim Falé (translations), Nancy Cardoso (JC&A) and Etna Correia (MozLegal).

MozLegal hopes that this publication achieves its purpose: to be a useful and practical resource for lawyers, investors and the public in general and to spread legal information about Mozambique further.

Warmest greetings,

88

THE MOZLEGAL DIRECTORS

Adrian Frey – José Caldeira
